MISS RIVES' NEW NOVEL

Illustrated by A.B. Wenzell

HEARTS COURAGEOUS

Its Motive

"To Miss Rives, author of 'Hearts Courageous,' it has remained to go behind the walls of Independence Hall, and write dramatically the real story of the signing."—Denver Republic.

"Its most thrilling scenes are laid in the old State House, while the final debate on the Declaration of Independence is in progress. Its local color here is convincingly true."—Philadelphia Times.

Its Central Character

"The character chief in interest in the story is one that modern fiction has passed wholly by. It is Patrick Henry. Miss Rives' Henry is in no sense the Henry of the old school readers. It is a Henry of a much nearer acquaintance—the buckskin lawyer without a brief, the story-swapping fisherman and deerstalker, the magnetic, electric, impassioned, far-seeing orator and patriot, who, beneath his backwood exterior, conceals a soul of fire and sweetness and tenderness."

—Buffalo Courier.

Its Atmosphere

"It has all the flash and sparkle of the old regime in the Colonial high days."—Trenton Advertiser.

"'Heart's Courageous' carries us back over the years and sets us down in Colonial Virginia. We take part in a fox-hunt—a real fox-hunt at that—and we hear the music of the hounds, not as lookers on—but as participants in the chase. It gives a truer picture of Colonial days than any novel of recent years."

—Washington Post.

The Illustrations

"The illustrations warrant a paragraph all to themselves. They were cut in wood from drawings by Wenzell by M. Haider, the artist who made marvellous woodcuts for the Century Magazine a short time ago, and besides being rather of a novelty in book-making, they are delightful. The clear line and outline combined with their unusual softness of tone, should be a cause of pride to the publishers, and of imitation to others."

—N. Y. Press.

THE SPENDERS

By HARRY LEON WILSON

SIX DRAWINGS BY O'NEILL LATHAM. Price $1.50

THIS is a bright, spirited, brilliant story of men and women of to-day, of America East and West, of the people of the mining camps and the gay society of the metropolis. The author has drawn a wonderfully vivid picture of conditions social and commercial, as they exist, especially of the life in New York. Percival Bines, the central figure, Avice Milbrey, the type of America's most stalwart girl, and "Uncle Peter" of the first generation are characters naturally so interesting and typical and so finely delineated that the story, with due reservation, is predicted to be the novel of 1902.

JUDITH'S GARDEN

By MARY E. STONE BASSETT

Illustrations in Four Colors by GEORGE WRIGHT. Price $1.50

AN exquisite, delicious, charming book, as fresh as new-mown hay, as fragrant as the odor from the garden of the gods. It is the story of a garden, a woman, and a man. It will catch the interest of every lover of flowers,—and their name is legion,—and will delight and comfort every reader.

JUST PUBLISHED

AMONG THE WATERFOWL

Observation, Adventure, Photography

By HERBERT K. JOB

Superbly illustrated from 100 photographs by the author, of wild ducks, gulls, geese, loons, etc., etc.

At Sea, in the Far North and in the Swamps of Dakota where they breed, Mr. Job has for years made a special study of the gulls and waterfowl whose life histories are the least known of our wild birds. His photographs (generally made with a string over a hundred yards long attached to the camera) are marvels of intimate bird picturing.

With about 100 illustrations from photos by the author. $1.35 net.

THE TRUST: ITS BOOK

By CHARLES R. FLINT, JAMES J. HILL, JAMES H. BRIDGE, S. C. T. DODD, and F. B. THURBER

This is an extraordinarily interesting contribution to the literature of industrial combination. It shows what the men who are making these vast amalgamations think of them, presenting for the first time a consensus of "inside" opinions on the many aspects of the question.

Representative opinions of Trusts from Senator Hanna, President Roosevelt, Lord Rosebery, Thomas B. Reed, and 50 other prominent men. $1.25 net.

NOTES IN SEASON.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY announce a novel by a new English writer, Margery Williams, entitled "The Late Returning," which gives a series of sharp and vivid pictures of a resolution in a South American State.

HARPER & BROTHERS will publish on the 12th inst. a new book by John Kendrick Bangs, entitled "Olympian Nights." In this book the author places a modern story among the Grecian gods and goddesses, Mount Olympus appearing as a sort of Waldorf-Astoria of the gods where Cupid runs the elevator and Jupiter is referred to as "the old man." The adventures of the hero are as amusing as Bangs can make them.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & CO. have just ready "Nature Portraits," a sumptuous portfolio of photographic studies of wild animals, birds and fishes by some of the most expert and successful of nature photographers, such as Dugmore, Wallihan and Carlin. The text is by the editor of Country Life in America, Professor L. H. Bailey. The portfolio includes fifteen large plates and many smaller ones, some being in half tone, but a number being actual photographs printed from the negatives.

THE LOTHROP PUBLISHING COMPANY have just ready a new novel by Harry Leon Wilson, entitled "The Spenders," a bright story of life in this country—in the mining camps and in the gay society of the metropolis. The volume has six illustrations by O'Neill Latham. They have also just ready "Judith's Garden," by Mary E. Stone Bassett, a charming story of a garden, a man and a woman, with illustrations in four colors, by George Wright; also, "'Tween You and I: Some Little Problems of Life," a new book by "Max O'Rell." They will publish on the 21st inst. "Jezebel," a romance of the days when Ahab was king of Israel, by Lafayette McLaws, author of "When the Land Was Young."

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS announce a cheap edition of twenty of Henty's copyright books, including "The Dash for Khartoum," "Redskin and Cowboy," "Held fast for England," "Beric the Britain," "In Greek Waters," "Condemned as a Nihilist," "A Jacobite Exile," "St. Bartholomew's Eve," "Through the Sikh War," "In the Heart of the Rockies," "Wulf the Saxon," "When London Burned," "A Knight of the White Cross," "The Tiger of Mysore," "Through Russian Snows," "Cochrane the Dauntless," "At Agincourt," "On the Irrawaddy," "With Moore at Corunna," and "A March on London." The volumes will be printed from the same plates as the original edition, with all illustrations, with olivine edges and attractive bindings. They will be sold in quantities at prices to admit of being handled on the same basis as the best of the unauthorized reprints of the uncopyrighted volumes.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY have just published a volume on "The Giant Fish of Florida," by J. Turner-Turner. This book, by an ardent fisherman and naturalist, recounts experiences in tackling the biggest and gamiest fighters against which the salt water fisherman has a chance to exercise his strength and skill, and is full of information as well as entertainment. How Mr. Turner secured his remarkable pictures is not the least interesting feature of his book, yet he has reproduced the effect of great fish swimming beneath the surface of the sea—which it would be impossible to obtain in actuality—with a likeness to life and an action which are absolutely convincing, and this without employing a single mounted specimen. They have also just ready "A Practical Treatise on Smallpox," by Dr. George Henry Fox, Professor of Dermatology in the New York College of Physicians and Surgeons, assisted by several specialists. The work is illustrated with colored photographs from life.

Banks, Nancy Huston Oldfield: a Kentucky tale of the last century. N. Y., Macmillan, 1902. [My.] c. 4+431 p. D. cl., $1.50.

Describes a part of Kentucky not hitherto portrayed in fiction. The scene lies far down in the "Pennyroyal" region, that broad, rich, beautiful country between the Green and the Cumberland rivers. The village of Oldfield stands—through the author's placing—in a secluded corner of this Pennyroyal region. In these peaceful surroundings is played the love story of a man and woman, in which is involved one of the sad problems of life.

Mr. Clapp was for many years the dramatic critic of the Boston Advertiser. His position and his inclination brought him into contact with the leading actors of the past fifty years. His book is a review of the stage of that period—its plays, its actors, its methods, etc. Special chapters are devoted to the personality and chief parts of William Warren, Charlotte Cushman, Salvini, Booth, Irving, Jefferson, Adelaide Neilson, Charles Fechter, and other less famous actors.

*Cohn, Alfred I. Indicators and test-papers, their source, preparation, application, and tests for sensitiveness: a resume of the current facts regarding the action and application of the indicators and test-papers which have been proposed from time to time and are in present use in chemical manipulations; with a tabular summary of the application of indicators. 2d ed., brought to date. Cox, Mrs. Ja. Farley, ["C.," pseud.] Home thoughts. 2d ser. N. Y., A. S. Barnes & Co. [My.] c. 4+340 p. D. cl., net, $1.20.

The first series of "Home thoughts" published last year were held together by a slender but noticeable thread of progression. These essays also have the connecting link in their close relation to family life and the eternal vigilance with which men and women strive to build their homes and rear their children. Among the 32 essays are found "The unselfish passion of paternal love," "Amusements for children and children as amusers," "The value of a working husband," "Aftermath, a thought about wedding days," "The ideal gentlewoman of her generation," "Unintentional dishonesty," "Duty to old portraits and letters," "Co-operative illumination."

N. Y., [W. D. Grant,] 1902. c. 2 v., 20+582; 15+471 p. pors. O. cl., $2.50.

The editor has aimed to present the world's Christian activities regardless of sectarian lines. While each volume is complete in itself, they gain by being read consecutively, as the movements presented at length in the second volume are but incidentally referred to in the first volume. The first volume in some thirty chapters surveys as many distinct areas of the earth in which Christianity is found, and gives account of Christian institutions therein, with some record of recent development. The second volume in as many chapters pursues the subject into details of condition and of progress in various lines —the new problems, the social aspect, critical movements, Sunday-schools, social settlements, church union, etc.

Designed to meet the needs of the beginning student of zoology. Technical and scientific names have been avoided as far as possible, and those used are fully explained in the text or elsewhere. The opening chapters deal with the characteristics of living things, and, in contrasting animals and plants, attempt to bring into relief the distinguishing marks of all animals. Then follows a discussion of the cell and protoplasm, preparing the way for the examination of a series of animals representative of each of the great groups, from the simplest to the most complex. The illustrations have been drawn or photographed from living or preserved material.

Josselyn, C: The true Napoleon: a cyclopedia of events in his life. N. Y., R. H. Russell, 1902. c. 10+437 p. por. O. cl., net, $3.50.

A compilation of anecdotes and opinion incident to Napoleon and his times. Mr. Josselyn does not pretend to any originality. He has grouped what he believes to be interesting facts already given to the world, and has used without any hesitation any reliable author that could help him. His book he thinks may save many who are interested in the life of Napoleon the trouble of wading through many volumes to find that which they would like to read.

A romance of the early Christians. The principal character is Arsaces, the first Christian bishop of Parthia. He was a Parthian of noble family and a noted athlete. Captured by the Romans, he was taken to Rome where he became the most famous gladiator of his time. Descriptions are given of his contests in the arena. The book also gives a picture of Ephesus and the sensual worship of Diana, bringing in the persecutions of the early Christians at that time.

Kirk Mrs. Ellen Olney, ["Henry Hayes," pseud.] A remedy for love. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1902. [My.] c. 3+227 p. D. cl., $1.25.

An old-fashioned love story. There are three pairs of lovers instead of one. This involves not only two pretty debutantés, but their father, a widower who finds himself able to fall in love again after twenty years of science and solitude. Originally published in Lippincott's Magazine under the title "An anti climax."

Lennox, Lady Sarah. The life and letters of Lady Sarah Lennox, 1745-1826, daughter of Charles, 2d Duke of Richmond, and successively the wife of Sir Thomas Charles Bunbury, Bart., and of the Hon. George Napier. Also A short political sketch of the years 1760 to 1763, by H: Fox, 1st Lord Holland; ed. by the Countess of Ilchester and Lord Savordale. N. Y., Scribner, 1902. 19+653 p. pors. O. cl., net, $4.

The correspondence which forms the subject of this volume extends over nearly sixty years. Most of the letters are addressed to Lady Susan Fox Strangways. "To her," says the introduction, "we are indebted for the careful preservation of the majority of the letters." The memoirs and the letters are rendered exactly as in their original form, the curious spelling even is faithfully reproduced.

This new volume in the "Pepper series" takes the Pepper family abroad, to new scenes and new experiences.

McGarvey, J. W. The authorship of the book of Deuteronomy, with its bearings on the higher criticism of the Pentateuch. Cin., O., Standard Pub. Co., [1902.] c. 23+304 p. O. cl., $2.

"It is," says the author, "with the application of higher criticism to the book of Deuteronomy that we are especially concerned." As a result of the labors of a century on the part of German writers mostly rationalists, a theory of the origin and structure of the Pentateuch has been evolved which meets with the general approval of those who deny that Moses was its author. This theory is called the analytical theory because of the peculiar analysis of the Pentateuch. The present volume discusses the authorship of Deuteronomy and briefly outlines the theory advanced by rationalists.

Mackinnon, Ja. The growth and decline of the French monarchy. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1902. 20+840 p. O. cl., $7.50.

This volume has grown out of the author's desire to investigate the origins of the French Revolution. He has not aimed at writing a disquisition on the institutions of monarchic France. It is of government in connection with contemporary history that he has treated. The growth of the monarchy is portrayed from the days of Hugh Capet onward, until it reached its climax in the reign of Louis XIV. From the latter part of the reign to the end of that of Louis XV. the writer treats of its decline. Bibliographies are appended to each chapter.

The addresses are the outcome of resolutions passed at the meeting of the General Assembly at Minneapolis, Minn., May, 1899, when it was agreed upon by a specially appointed committee to set aside a memorial fund, to be known as the Twentieth century fund. The purpose of the fund being the endowment of Presbyterian, academic, collegiate and theological institutions. The furtherance of this object was to be attained by the publication of appropriate literature. The historical development of Presbyterianism is the subject of most of the discussions, which are by eminent divines.

Raine, Allen, [pseud. for Mrs. Beynon Puddicombe.] A Welsh witch: a novel. N. Y., Appleton, 1902. [My.] c. 3+405 p. D. (Appleton's town and country lib., no. 312.) cl., $1; pap., 50 c.

A phase of Welsh life is portrayed, which is fast passing away. The "witch" is introduced as a girl of fifteen, wild, ill-clad, uneducated, driven out of doors by the harshness of a drunken father and the brutality of his farm servants, hooted and stoned as a witch by the village children, but finding life and solace in the open air and sky, the fields, the sea, and the affection of her dog and other animals. Her development into a most lovable creature, through her love for a handsome young farmer, who is kind to her, is most interesting.

A young English girl with a cruel stepmother resolves to make her own way in the world. On her tramp up to London she meets George Hardy, a friend of her childhood, and mate of the merchant ship York bound for Australia. Through his influence she obtains a position as assistant stewardess on board a merchant ship going to Calcutta. Her ship is burnt in mid-ocean, and she is unexpectedly rescued by the York. After this she and the mate figure in many additional adventures.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

JUNE 7, 1902.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Books for the "Weekly Record," as well as all information intended for that department, should reach this office by Tuesday morning of each week.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalogue" and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

THE MORALITY OF BALZAC.

A JURY in Judge Hutchinson's Court in Chicago, has decided that Balzac's stories are so immoral that subscribers are not obliged to pay for them even after they have contracted to take them from an agent—if the agent has represented them as proper books for family use.

In this particular case, looked at from a purely business point of view, the jury could hardly have decided otherwise than it did, if it be true that the agent represented to the purchaser that the books were written for children, though it is most extraordinary in these days of enlightenment that any one could swallow such a statement. It is evident that the plaintiff swallowed it and fifty-one of these unusual "juveniles" were delivered before it was discovered that some of them—the "Droll Stories" in particular—were unfit for perusal by youthful readers. Even if all of them were free from objectionable matter not one of them is fitted for children. There are many adults who do not care much for Balzac, notwithstanding he dealt with all human passions in his "Human Comedy." Therefore, if the agent presented any such inducement as is charged, he was selling the books under false pretenses and his employers should be held responsible.

But there is another point of view, from which all who have a sense of humor will look upon the Chicago verdict. For the sake of the literary leadership so insisted upon for Chicago, it is to be hoped that she will not again for some time feel called upon to make or mar any literary reputation, or to decide upon the literary or moral character of the works of French authors. To have blasted the reputation and character of Rostand and Balzac within a fortnight were enough for the "higher criticism" of the century. And was it not to Chicago's listening ear that Hugues Le Roux confided that he was the author of Daudet's "La Belle Nivernaise," and other remarkable canards! Truly, Chicago is working toward the "real thing" in literature.

AN event of considerable importance was the meeting last week of thirty of the representatives of the retail trade of New York City to take steps to form a local association. As pointed out by Mr. Brentano and others at this first meeting, an association of this kind could often do more effective work for reform than would be possible for the national association which necessarily is obliged to move slowly because its membership is spread all over the country. A local organization would not parallel the work of the national association, but would complement it, and be more forceful, prompt and vigilant in promoting reform in its immediate vicinity than is otherwise possible. The example of New York should stimulate the trade in other large cities in the East and West, North and South, any of which might extend its influence within a large radius and cover sections where it would be impracticable to create local associations. The reform is not yet quite an accomplished fact. It will need the concerted action of the retail trade, as well as the publishing section for some time to come to make it certain beyond a doubt.

WILL SUE ROSTAND ABROAD.

SAMUEL EBERLY GROSS intends to follow up his victory over Richard Mansfield and A. M. Palmer, by suing in the English and French courts to prove there that Rostand's play, "Cyrano," was pilfered from Mr. Gross's "Merchant Prince of Cornville." He also intends to write a new play with its plot laid in France, its hero to resemble François Villon. This drama will be produced in Grossdale, near Chicago, in a theatre to be built on the lines of the Shakespeare memorial theatre at Stratford-on-Avon.

MISSING PAGES DO NOT AFFECT THE STATUS OF A BOOK.

A DECISION was handed down by Judge Lacombe, May 31, in the United States Circuit Court, New York, which is of importance to publishers and authors, deciding that a book's status is not affected by missing pages. The decision was the result of an appeal by the Macmillan Company from a ruling of the Board of Appraisers.

The Macmillan Company made arrangements with the publishers and owners of the English copyrights of a book on anatomy to publish and copyright the work in this country simultaneously with the English appearance of the book. The first sixty-four pages were sent here, set up and printed and copyrighted. Then it was found that the Macmillan Company could not complete the printing of the book in time to get it out on the same date as the English publication. Accordingly, the book was printed with the sixty-four American printed and copyrighted pages, and the remaining pages imported from England.

The Board of Appraisers assessed duty on the pages at 25 per cent. under the paragraph relating to "printed matter," reading, "books, engravings, photographs, bound or unbound, etchings, music, maps or charts, which shall have been printed more than twenty years—and all scientific books and periodicals directly devoted to original scientific research, etc." In his opinion Judge Lacombe says: "Concededly this is a scientific book. It has been held that 'book' in the paragraph was broad enough to cover the printed sheets unbound, and it would seem that these sheets did not cease to be a book because a few pages at the beginning or ending were wanting. The decision of the Board of Appraisers is therefore reversed."

BOOK PRODUCTION IN AUSTRO-HUNGARY, 1900.

ACCORDING to the Oesterreichische Bibliographie, edited by Carl Junker and Arthur L. Jellinek, there were published in Austro-Hungary 1373 new books, 315 annuals, reports of societies, etc., 203 periodicals, and 103 maps, charts, etc., or a total of 1994. Analyzed by subjects the output of the new books is as follows:

Miscellaneous, including almanacs	23
Philosophy	17
Theology	92
Political, Law, including Military science, pedagogy and text-books for public schools	360
Philology	93
Exact sciences, including mathematics, physics, chemistry, geology, botany and zoology	173
Applied sciences, including medicine and agriculture	224
Fine Arts, including drama	43
Literature	196
History and geography	152
	1373

This number was produced by 182 publishing houses, prominent among which are the following Vienna firms: Gerold's Sohn, with 187 books to its credit; Perles, with 130 books; and Hölder, with 123 books. Books in the German language lead in numbers. Then follow those in Bohemian and Hungarian.

THE AMERICAN BOOK COMPANY ENJOINED IN KANSAS.

ACCORDING to a special dispatch to the New York Times, an injunction was issued in the Topeka District Court, May 31, against the American Book Company to restrain it from doing business in Kansas, and against the Secretary of State, restraining him from granting the company a charter.

The American Book Company had secured certain school book contracts held by Crane & Co., who then went into the courts with the allegation that the American Book Company was operating in violation of the anti-trust law, and the injunction is the result.

BOOKTRADE ASSOCIATIONS.

AMERICAN PUBLISHERS' ASSOCIATION.

To the Trade:

WE beg leave to announce that, in compliance with the expressed wish of many important members of the trade, and to extend the protection to the price of fiction provided by the rules, the amendment printed below in italic type was adopted at a meeting of the American Publishers' Association, held May 27, 1902.

The rule covering fiction now reads as follows:

IV. That the members of the Association agree that on all copyrighted works of fiction (not net) published by them after February 1, 1902, the greatest discount allowed at retail for one year after publication shall be 28 per cent., and all the rules for the protection of net books shall apply to the protection of fiction to this extent.

The conditions governing the sale of fiction are such that the Association does not attempt to fix a uniform price at which works of fiction (not net) shall be sold, but only to name a maximum discount which, however, it is hoped will rarely be given.

When a work of fiction published under this rule is sent postpaid the price to the purchaser shall be not less than the minimum price plus the postage.

The above amendment takes effect immediately, and applies to all sellers of books.

We beg leave to again extend congratulations to the trade on the general satisfaction attending the operation of the protected price principle, and the firm foothold it has secured during the past year.

AMERICAN PUBLISHERS' ASSOCIATION,

At the same meeting the subject of enlarging the discount to libraries came up for discussion, but was laid over without action.

RETAIL BOOKSELLERS' ASSOCIATION OF NEW YORK.

A CONFERENCE of the retail booksellers of New York City was held at Brentano's, 5 Union Square, on the evening of May 26, to ascertain the desirability of forming a protective association. It was unanimously agreed to form such an association, and it was left to the chairman to appoint a committee of nine to draw up constitution and by-laws.

About thirty were present, representing the following houses: V. M. Coryell, of V. M. Coryell & Co.; John Ireland, of G. P. Putnam's Sons; J. Macrae, of E. P. Dutton & Co.; F. E. Grant, J. A. Jenkins, William R. Jenkins, T. J. McBride, Henry Malkan, Wm. Rhode, of Rhode & Haskins; L. Jonas, Colonel Ammon, A. Mackel, H. C. Holtin, Charles S. Pratt, S. Edgar Briggs and Mr. Robertson, of the Fleming H. Revell Co.; S. F. McLean, John Francis, of Everett, Francis & Co.: Chas. P. Everitt, of Doubleday, Page & Co.; R. W. Crothers, Edwin S. Gorham, Wm. H. Farrington, of D. Van Nostrand & Co.; M. J. Whaley, Robert H. Dodd, of Dodd, Mead & Co.; E. W. Dayton; Samuel Reis, of the American Tract Society; and Louis E. Turk, of the Board of Publication of the Reformed Church in America. Representatives from Bonnell, Silver & Co. and Thos. Whittaker were unable to attend.

Simon Brentano was chosen temporary chairman, and C. E. Burkhardt, of E. P. Dutton & Co., temporary secretary. Mr. Brentano stated that the object of the meeting was to learn whether the retail booksellers of New York City were in favor of forming an association for mutual benefit and protection, as the publishers had done—an association which could speak authoritatively for the booksellers when dealing with the American Publishers' Association, and to enable the booksellers to work in harmony with it. He then read letters from several who could not be present, all of whom favored such an association, and called for expressions of opinion.

F. E. Grant said he thought such an association would be a good thing to secure harmony of interest among the booksellers, and he would welcome it.

S. E. Briggs, of the Fleming H. Revell Company, said that, while the retail interests of his firm were of minor importance, his house was heartily in favor of the movement.

Col. J. H. Ammon, of Ammon & Mackel, said: "An organization of this kind will enable us to go to the publishers and tell them what we want; it will be for our own protection, so that we can find out where price-cutting booksellers get books to sell, and prevent it."

J. Macrae, of E. P. Dutton & Co., expressed himself as thoroughly agreeing with the plan.

C. E. Burkhardt said this association could be of great good where the American Booksellers' Association was ineffective, because the latter is necessarily slow, votes being taken by mail and but one meeting being held annually; an association like this can meet at any time.

Mr. Brentano said the American Booksellers' Association was obliged to wait for answers from members throughout the United States; an organization of the kind proposed, confined to this city, would not try to parallel the work of the American Booksellers' Association, but would complement it, and be more forceful, prompt, and vigilant in this immediate vicinity.

J. Ireland, of G. P. Putnam's Sons, said: "The house I represent is strongly in favor of this organization. I think, myself, it would be of help to the American Booksellers' Association, which will certainly assist it in every way."

H. C. Holtin said he thought the formation of such an association would be the best thing that could be done for the booksellers' mutual protection. He mentioned the injury done to retail booksellers by certain department stores that sell books at cost, making up the loss on dry goods, where values are not so easily detected. He also referred to the harmful influence of certain circulating libraries.

Mr. Brentano said this association would enable the booksellers to get together and learn what each other's experiences were, and to consider just such cases as those cited by Mr. Holtin.

Henry Malkan said that when he started in business every one was cutting prices, and he felt that he had to be where the other fellows were. He would like very much to see such an organization formed.

R. H. Dodd, of Dodd, Mead & Co., said: "Our house is in thorough sympathy with this proposed association. It might be of great help to the American Publishers' Association. We should be glad to join and do what we can to give it a chance."

Chas. S. Pratt said he had taken into consideration the extreme demoralization in book prices in Great Britain, and feared we were coming to a similar situation. He was in favor of fighting price-cutting and having prices maintained, not only in his own store, but in all bookstores. He did not believe booksellers should give in so easily as they do to customers who come to them with the discount idea. He cited examples to show that department stores are not the only offenders in price-cutting. Booksellers in reality all have the same interests, and should fight shoulder to shoulder.

S. F. McLean asked whether the purposes of this association could not be accomplished in some way through the Booksellers' League, and so avoid adding to the number of wheels in the machinery. Nevertheless he would be in favor of such an organization if it were decided upon.

E. S. Gorham said a little mutual understanding among the booksellers might often avert a disaster to the trade. He would strongly support any action taken in the direction proposed.

William Rhode, of Rhode & Haskins, said if this association could make book prices uniform he would be glad to abide by its decisions.

Mr. Macrae said this organization would enable the heads of houses to get together and confer on business matters more effectively than through the Booksellers' League. They could support the American Publishers' Association, and with them arrive at some rate at which booksellers could do business with profit.

The following resolution was then passed unanimously:

Resolved, That it is the sense of this meeting that an association be formed, to be known as the "Retail Booksellers' Association of New York."

Upon motion of S. E. Briggs the chairman was empowered to appoint a committee of nine to draft a constitution and by-laws. It was also voted that the chairman, at the meeting of the American Publishers' Association the next day, should express the approval of this meeting of booksellers with what the publishers had accomplished, and its desire that they should take no backward step.

POSTAL MATTERS.

POSTMASTER GENERAL UPHELD IN A "SECOND-CLASS" DECISION.

Justice Barnard, of the District of Columbia Supreme Court, in a decision in the mandamus case of the Chicago Business College against the Postmaster General, handed down May 23, sustains the policy of the post-office department in its exclusion of certain classes of publications from the second-class mail rates.

The court refused to issue the writ of mandamus and dismissed the petition of the college, which sought to compel the admission of its publication, Business Education, to the second-class rate.

The court suggested in its decision that it did not think courts should differ in judgment with officers of the government as to the meaning of a law that such officers are charged with executing, as that would constitute a substitution of the judicial mind for the executive.

RULES AS TO POSTAL CARDS.

Government postal cards which are enamelled, bronzed or in any way defaced, lose their character as postal cards hereafter and become subject to ordinary letter postage when they bear a written message, or to third-class postage when they are all in print. This ruling is contained in the latest edition of the postal regulations. The ruling is thought to be a result of the recent disclosures regarding the ease with which such cards are counterfeited.

OBITUARY NOTES.

Jean Joseph Benjamin-Constant, the celebrated French painter, died in Paris, May 26. He was born in Paris, June 10, 1845.

Peter Ross, LL.D., Grand Historian of the New York Grand Lodge of Masons, and the author of many books on Freemasonry, died in New York on the 2d inst. He was born in Edinburgh, in 1847, and learned the printer's trade there, drifting later into journalism. He came to this country in 1875, and became the editor of a journal devoted to Scottish affairs. Besides his works on Masonry, he published a volume entitled "Scottish Character in History," "The Life of St. Andrew," "The Scot in America," and "Scotland and the Scots." At the time of his death he was engaged upon a "History of Long Island."

Mme. Alice Céleste Durand, the novelist, who wrote under the pen-name of "Henri Grêville," died in Paris, May 26. She was born in Paris, October 12, 1842, but at the age of fourteen went to St. Petersburg with her father, Professor Fleury. She acquired a knowledge of Russian, and wrote sketches and stories for the newspapers of that county. She had written several books under her pseudonym, when she was married to Henri Durand, a French professor of law in the University of St. Petersburg. In 1872 she returned to Paris and wrote voluminously on Russian subjects—turning out three or four pleasant stories a year. Some of her best-known books in English translations are "Dosia," "Gabrielle," "Markoff," "Sylvie's Betrothed" and "Princess Roubine." She last visited the United States a few years ago, and since that time had written but little.

Clifford L. Jones died at his home, 496 Lexington Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y., on May 23. Mr. Jones was only twenty-six years old, and his death comes as a shock to his many friends in the booktrade. He commenced his career as a boy in the employ of the Baker & Taylor Co., and under the able and careful direction of this house he became very proficient and thorough in his knowledge of books of every description, so that three years ago, when J. A. Hill & Co. required a competent assistant in their mail order and catalogue department, Mr. Jones was selected for this important position, which he filled so satisfactorily that for the past year he was given practically full charge of the order department. Mr. Jones had a bright, cheerful and cordial disposition, which won him many friends among his customers and associates, as well as in the booktrade, and he was held in high esteem by his employers. He leaves a wife and a son aged two and a half years.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

Mrs. John Lane, wife of the well-known publisher, and daughter of that old-time musical celebrity of Boston, Julius Eichberg, and author of "The Kitwyk Tales," contributes to the June Fortnightly an interesting article on "American Wives and English Housekeeping." Mr. Lane will publish in the fall an English edition of his wife's Kitwyk book.

John Graham, whose novel, "The Great God Success," was published last year by Frederick A. Stokes Company, is the pseudonym of David Graham Phillips, a well-known New York newspaper man, who recently gave up journalistic work for literature. He began his journalistic career as reporter for the New York Sun. For a time he was the second leader-writer on the World. Mr. Phillips has just published "Her Serene Highness," and has a third novel almost completed, which is promised for the fall.

F. MARION CRAWFORD, contrary to the general impression, does most of his work in this country—in a room fitted up for him in the Macmillan building in New York—and takes his vacations with his family at his Italian home in Sorrento. He has, however, a work den of a curious sort in Italy. It is an old watch tower on the rugged Calabrian coast, two days' sail from Sorrento, and consists only of a dungeon and a keep, the latter of which Mr. Crawford has made habitable. There he lives for weeks at a time on an ascetic's fare, while his schooner and her sailors wait in the harbor. The novelist has sailed his boat across the Atlantic and is a master mariner, holding a captain's license.

PAUL LEICESTER FORD began work last year upon a novel dealing with the time of the Georges. The plot was a promising one, and the book started off with a swing, but later Mr. Ford told the prospective publishers that he was out of step, and that the story refused to march. Finally, he laid it aside, for the time, and began work upon an extensively annotated edition of Weems's "Washington." Examination of Mr. Ford's manuscript shows that the Georgian story is in too embryonic and tangled a state for use. but the "Washington" is far enough along for a possibility of completion and publication. A short story, entitled "A Checked Love Affair," written shortly before his tragic death, appears in the current issue of Collier's Weekly, in which journal his "Janice Meredith" was published serially. Dodd, Mead & Co. will publish in the fall "Wanted a Chaperone," a story the title of which suggests his "Wanted, a Matchmaker." It will be illustrated by Christy.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

The Blue Sky Magazine has said adieu to its readers.

BEGINNING with the July number The Forum will be issued quarterly instead of monthly. The general character of the magazine will be the same. In addition to the general reviews each issue will contain a number of special articles of interest. There will be nine departments: (1) American Politics; (2) Foreign Affairs; (3) Finance and Economics; (4) Science, Invention, and Engineering; (5) Literature; (6) Music and the Drama; (7) Art; (8) Educational Events (9) Educational Research.

BIBLIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

FELIX DIETRICH, Leipzig, has published the long-promised index to reviews of German and foreign books published during 1900, that were printed in German reviews, newspapers, reports of societies, etc. The volume is entitled "Bibliographie der deutschen Rezensionen, mit Einschluss von Referaten und Selbstanzeigen." The work is intended as a supplement to the "Bibliographie der deutschen Zeitschriften-Litteratur," and is edited by F. Dietrich, with the assistance of Arthur L. Jellinek and Dr. E. Roth. It contains references to about 38,000 reviews in 1396 publications. (406 p. 4°, pap., 25 marks.)

BUSINESS NOTES.

BOSTON, MASS.—Benj. H. Sanborn & Co. have purchased the entire list of text-books of Thomas R. Shewell & Co., who retire from business.

BURLINGTON, VT.—Thomas F. Ahearn has opened a bookstore at 83 Pearl Street. He will make a speciality of Catholic goods.

CHICAGO, ILL.—Brentano's have removed to larger quarters at Wabash Avenue and Adams Street, a few doors north of their former store.

CHICAGO, ILL.—M. A. Donohue & Co. have become "Eastern" representatives for A. M. Robertson of San Francisco.

CHICAGO, ILL.—The Henneberry Company is now in its new building at 554 Wabash Avenue.

CHICAGO, ILL.—George W. Ogilvie sold the manufacturing plant of the George M. Hill Company to C. O. Owen & Co., which has turned it over to the Hill Binding Company of which George M. Hill will be manager.

CHICAGO, ILL.—Frank R. Reilly and Sumner C. Britton, formerly with the George M. Hill Company, have entered into partnership under the firm name of the Madison Book Company, to conduct a general selling and agency business. They have opened an office and sample room at 84 Adams Street.

CLEVELAND, O.—Miss Douglass and Mr. Carl Wegan, formerly with the Helman-Taylor Company, have opened a store at 152 The Arcade, under the name of the Circulating Library News Company.

GREENSBURG, PA.—Miss M. Tecklenburg and Miss Gist have just opened The T. & G. Book Shop, and will be pleased to receive publishers' catalogues and stationers' and manufacturers' lists.

IRONTON, O.—The Ironton Book and Stationery Co. has assigned.

JERSEY CITY, N. J.—William J. Burkhardt has opened a book and stationery store at 206 Ocean Avenue. He is a son of Charles A. Burkhardt, of E. P. Dutton & Co., and was in their employ for the past five years. He will be pleased to receive catalogues, trade announcements and lists of "jobs" in paper or cloth bound books.

NEW YORK CITY.—Victor Cupples and Arthur T. Leon have opened an office in the Presbyterian Building, at 156 Fifth Avenue, where they will conduct an agency for George W. Ogilvie & Co. and other Chicago firms. They will have charge of the Jamieson-Higgins Company business east of Pittsburg, and will also act as advertising managers for Four O'Clock, a magazine owned by the Jamieson-Higgins Company, but published under the name of The Four O'Clock Company.

NEW YORK CITY.—Dick & Fitzgerald have purchased the entire stock and good will of the dramatic publishing business heretofore conducted by Harold Roorbach at 132 Nassau Street, and are prepared to execute orders for all plays, theatrical supplies, etc., hitherto advertised in Mr. Roorbach's catalogue. Mr. Roorbach, a grandson of Harold Roorbach, the pioneer of booktrade bibliography, retires from business.

NEW YORK CITY.—Martin F. Onnen has removed from Murray Street to 114 Fifth Avenue.

PERRY, O. T.—J. E. Shanafelt's bookstore was burned out last month.

PHILLIPSBURG, PA.—Frank B. Arndt has opened a bookstore near Union Square.

PLATTSBURG, Mo.—George R. Bryant & Co. have bought out D. W. Burnett's Post Office Store. They intende to make it a high class book, stationery and news store.

SYRACUSE, N. Y.—Clarence E. Wolcott has bought out his partner's interest in the firm of Wolcott & West and will continue the business as "Wolcott's Boo-Shop" in the White Memorial Building. Mr. Wolcott, one of the most enterprising booksellers in Central New York, has been located over twenty-six years on Vanderbilt Square—the first five of which were spent in the employ of T. W. Durston & Co., adjoining Mr. Wolcott's present quarters. Mr. Wolcott has done good service for the booktrade as one of the founders of the American Booksellers' Association, of which he has been president during the past year.

WESTPORT, CONN.—Robert Baker and Joseph Platt have opened a bookstore here.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

THE UNIT LIBRARY, LTD., Leicester Square, London, has taken over from Howard Bell the Unit Library.

THE forthcoming new volume by the author of "An Englishwoman's Love Letters" will be signed by the author's full name.

HINDS & NOBLE have purchased the stock, plates and all interests in Henry's "New Normal U. S. History," and will hereafter publish it.

JAMES POTT & Co. have in press a volume entitled "Chomwell's Army," by C. H. Firth, who was the lecturer last year on the Ford Foundation, at Oxford.

FREDERICK WARNE & Co. will publish shortly a new novel by Mrs. J. H. Needell, author of "Stephen Ellicott's Daughter," etc., entitled "Unstable as Water."

WE notice among the recent decisions of the Jury of Awards, at the Charleston Exposition, the conferring of a gold medal upon the Spanish school books of Silver, Burdett & Company.

D. APPLETON & Co. have changed the title of Frederick J. Crowest's book on music to "The Story of the Art of Music," the title first determined upon having already been used by Mr. Henderson for his brief history of music published a dozen years ago.

FORDS, HOWARD & HULBERT have brought out a new issue of Judge Tourgée's famous novel of the Reconstruction era in the South, entitled "A Fool's Errand, by One of the Fools," which had an extraordinary vogue in the eighties, and still holds a certain popular interest.

HERBERT S. STONE & Co., have just published "The Story of Mary MacLane," the diary of a Montana girl, about nineteen years old, who is being spoken of as an "American Marie Bashkirtseff." The advance orders have overwhelmed the publishers, and they ask the indulgence of the trade until they may be able to catch up with the demand.

D. C. HEATH & Co., Boston, have in press for immediate issue Jules Verne's "Vingt Mille Lieues sous les Mers," abridged and edited with notes by Professor C. Fontaine, of the Boys' High School, New York City. This abridged edition of perhaps the most famous of Verne's stories maintains the thread of the entire narrative, and all its best episodes.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. will publish shortly "September Days on Nantucket," a new book by William Root Bliss, that reflects the enjoyment of early autumn on the "island of the sea;" "Charles Eliot, Landscape Architect," a biography told in his letters, reports and published writings, edited by his father, President Charles W. Eliot, of Harvard; also, a limited edition, of 500 copies, of the "Poems of Edward Rowland Sill," now collected for the first time.

LEE & SHEPARD, in addition to the books already announced, have in press "Hortense—a Difficult Child," by Edna Foster, editor of the Children's Page in Youth's Companion, with illustrations by Mary Ayer; "The Story of Joan of Arc for Boys and Girls, Told by Aunt Kate," by Kate E. Carpenter, illustrated by Amy Brooks; also, "Boy Donald and His Hero," the third and last volume of the Boy Donald Series, by "Penn Shirley," illustrated by Bertha G. Davidson.

A STATEMENT has been published during the past week that a somewhat sensational volume of letters of Jane Welsh Carlyle is being prepared for early publication. These letters, which were collected by members of the inner circle of the Carlyle family, have been submitted, according to the London Academy, to Sir James Crichton Browne for reading and revision. Sir James has advised that they should be published for the sake of the fresh light they throw upon the domestic life of the Carlyles.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & CO. announce that after much delay the matter of printing "The Variorum and Definitive Edition of the Poetical and Prose Writings of Edward Fitzgerald," has been rearranged and the entire matter placed in the hands of the De Vinne Press. The first volume may be expected in two weeks at the latest. The work, which will be complete in seven octavo volumes, will include a complete bibliography and interesting personal and literary notes collected and arranged by George Bentham, with a preface by Edmund Gosse.

LITTLE, BROWN & CO. have just ready "In the Eagle's Talon," by Sheppard Stevens, author of "The Sword of Justice," etc., a romance of the Louisiana Purchase, in which the court life in France and wild primitive life in the new world are vividly contrasted. They have also just ready "A Girl of Virginia," by Lucy Meacham Thruston, author of "Mistress Brent," a story of the University of Virginia and outdoor life. They will publish shortly "A Maid of Bar Harbor," a story of Mt. Desert before and after Society took possession of the island, by Henrietta G. Rowe.

HURST & CO.'s Trade and Order List for 1902 is just ready, showing numerous additions to their fifty or more series for old and young readers. In almost every direction they are rapidly completing their sets of standard and classic authors, well printed and attractively bound. Besides books in series, they are making Sunday-school Teachers' Reference Bibles, and large type Family Bibles; dictionaries and manuals; recitation books and hand books; musical folios; the Ideal edition of Shakespeare's works, in fourteen handy volumes; also, a reprint of Chambers's Encyclopedia in fifteen twelvemo volumes.

T. S. MCBRIDE, who runs the news stand in the Arcade of the Empire Building, at 71 Broadway, New York, made the assertion the other day that he sold more newspapers than any other stand in the world. A patron who was inclined to question this statement was convinced of its truth when Mr. McBride told him that on some days he sold as many as 5000 elevated railroad tickets, which he keeps as a convenience to the busy men who rush through this Arcade to the Rector Street station. It is estimated that from 30,000 to 50,000 people a day pass through this hall which furnishes a short cut to the elevated station.

GEORGE H. RIGBY, Philadelphia, has just published an interesting addition to the literature relating to the American stage, entitled "Ways of the Stage," by Joseph Whitton, a veteran of the theatrical profession in Philadelphia. As suggested by the title, the book is largely made up of the good stories of men who have been famous on the stage, most of whom are dead, but all of whom were personal friends of the writer. Junius Brutus Booth, Brougham, Edwin Forrest, the elder John Drew," "Billy" Florence, E. A. Sothern, and a number of others whose names have become household words in the profession which they honored, figure in his pages. The edition is limited to five hundred copies.

GEORGE W. JACOBS & CO. will publish shortly a collection of "Ann Arbor Tales," by Karl Edwin Harriman, of the class of '96 in the University of Michigan, whose literary work is known to readers of Harper's Magazine and Weekly, The Era, the Detroit Free Press, and other magazines and newspapers. They will publish later in the year two new books by Edward Robins, author of "Echoes of the Playhouse," and other studies of the stage. One of these is entitled "Romances of Early America," and will describe some of the love affairs to be found in the by-paths of American history—Philadelphia, Boston, New York, New Orleans, Williamsburg, Va., and Wilmington, Del., being among the places which form the background for these romantic episodes. The other, a story of the Civil War, is for the younger readers, and is entitled "Chasing an Iron Horse."

A. C. ARMSTRONG & SON, New York have just ready the concluding volume in their successful series—The Book-Lovers' Library —"How to Make an Index," by Henry B. Wheatley, author of "How to Catalogue a Library" and "How to Form a Library," etc. Mr. Wheatley is recognized as an expert in all things that concern books; and he has what few experts have, a way of giving to his knowledge, even when it is of the technical kind, a very attractive form. This volume is likely to prove a valuable companion to his earlier issues in this series on the forming and cataloguing of libraries. It not only gives useful rules for indexing, but furnishes examples of bad indexing and of amusing and satirical indexes, and will be found full of interest, as well as instruction. The various theories concerning indexing are set forth, and certain rules are laid down and illustrated for the making of an index, while erroneous methods are exposed and illustrated by examples. The book, like its two companion volumes, will appeal not only to the professional librarian and bibliographer, but to all who love and are interested in books.

THE SAALFIELD PUBLISHING COMPANY, Akron, O., have in preparation for the fall a large number of books for young people, among which are: "The Sapphire Quest," a story of the Rockies and Indians, by Edward Everett Billings; "The Little Woman in the Spout" and "Roy and Rosyrocks," two books by Mary Agnes Byrne; "Larry Barlow's Ambition," by Arthur H. Winfield; "The Boy Land Boomer," by Captain Ralph Bonehill; "Phil and Dick," a story of the American Navy, by Enrique H. Lewis; "Ralph Granger's Fortunes," a story of a slave-ship, by William Perry Brown; also, "Far Past the Frontier," a story of the Indians of Cuyahoga Valley, by James A. Braden. They also announce "The Blue Badge of Courage," by Colonel H. H. Hadley, Commander of the Blue Button Army, which tells of "rescue work," beginning with scenes of backwoods life and ending with the great mass meeting at Asbury Park, N. J.; a new life of Theodore Roosevelt, by Murat Halstead, with numerous illustrations; also, "Poco a Poco," by W. E. Johnson, a story of a scheme to found a National University of Art and Music at Washington, D. C.

Fleming H. Revell Company will publish at once "By Order of the Prophet," a novel by Alfred H. Henry, who is one of a trio of brilliant young contributors to American letters, all of one family. Mary Henry Rossiter, his sister, has written a life of her mother that has gone into five editions, and there is now in press a work of collaboration entitled "The Story of a Living Temple," a study of the human body in which she joins effort with her husband, Dr. F. M. Rossiter. Mr. Arthur Henry, well known to the newspaper world of New York, has lately issued through McClure, Phillips & Company, "An Island Cabin." The mother of these three young authors during her life wrote several books, all of which attained a high place in their respective field of effort and her influence is now making itself felt through her sons and daughter in the production of literature of a distinctly constructive sort. They have in press a volume entitled "My Dogs in Northland," by the Rev. E. R. Young, for many years in the missionary field in the British Northwest. Mr. Young shows, not only what can be done with Eskimo and St. Bernard dogs, but, incidentally, what has been done among the northern Indians by missionary labor. The life he depicts is rapidly becoming a thing of the past.

Last Week's New Books

IN FICTION

Published last Friday. Second edition just ready

THE VIRGINIAN

A HORSEMAN OF THE PLAINS

By OWEN WISTER Illustrated by ARTHUR I. KELLER Cloth, $1.50

"It is only at rare intervals that one comes across a book which appeals so directly to one's personal enjoyment. . . . We advise all readers who enjoy a genuinely American and thoroughly human book, to lose no time before reading 'The Virginian.'"

—The Commercial Advertiser, N. Y.

OLDFIELD

A KENTUCKY TALE OF THE LAST CENTURY

By NANCY HUSTON BANKS Ready May 28. Cloth, $1.50

"If one wishes for a few brief hours to slip away from the strenuous life in fiction and in fact, it is worth while reading 'Oldfield'—a quaint, unusual story, marked by much fine feeling and beauty of expression."—The Bookman.

To the above may be added, not as an issue of the week, but as the book most in demand,

DOROTHY VERNON OF HADDON HALL

By CHARLES MAJOR Illustrated by HOWARD CHANDLER CHRISTY Cloth, $1.50

"The best of the new novels," says one critic. "A veritable delight," says another, "for those who love a good love story"—"even more intense and fascinating than the same author's 'When Knighthood was in Flower.'"

MISCELLANEOUS

GEORGE ELIOT

By LESLIE STEPHEN Cloth, 75 cts. net (postage 8 cts.)

A new volume in the ENGLISH MEN OF LETTERS Series edited by JOHN MORLEY

The Author of "A History of English Thought in the Eighteenth Century," and Editor of "The Letters of John Richard Green," has made the life and writings of GEORGE ELIOT the subject of criticism so sane, wise and full of the saving grace of humor as to make the topic itself seem fresh.

THE STORY OF THE MORMONS

FROM THE DATE OF THEIR ORIGIN TO THE YEAR 1901

By WILLIAM ALEXANDER LINN

Sometime Managing Editor of the New York Evening Post

Cloth, 8*vo*, $4.00 net (postage 21 cts.)

The book shows Joseph Smith's first idea of revelation and Sidney Rigdon's connection with him; traces the successive moves of the Mormons, Brigham Young's reign in Utah, and the operations of the Church to 1901. It is illustrated from the Mormon Bible, etc., in facsimile.
